INT. MAYA'S APARTMENT - NIGHT

Rain crawls down the window. MAYA SEN, 27, a freelance filmmaker, sits alone in front of three monitors. A timeline of footage fills the center screen.

On the desk is an old digital camera. Its red recording light suddenly turns on.

MAYA

I didn't press record.

The camera's tiny screen displays a timestamp: TOMORROW, 11:47 PM.

MAYA

(quietly)

That's impossible.

She connects the camera to her laptop. A single video file appears: LAST_FRAME.MOV.

MAYA

Okay. Let's see what you are.

She clicks PLAY.

ON THE LAPTOP SCREEN - VIDEO

The footage shows Maya's apartment from the same angle. But the room is darker, the furniture is overturned, and the window is shattered.

A FUTURE MAYA enters frame. She looks exhausted and terrified.

FUTURE MAYA

If you're watching this, you still have time.

MAYA

(to the screen)

Time for what?

FUTURE MAYA

Don't go to the station tomorrow. Whatever happens, don't take the 11:47 train.

Future Maya looks toward something outside the frame.

FUTURE MAYA

And don't trust Daniel.

The video abruptly ends.

INT. MAYA'S APARTMENT - LATER

Maya paces. She opens her phone and scrolls to a contact: DANIEL - PRODUCER.

A message arrives before she can call him.

DANIEL: 'Are you still taking the 11:47 tomorrow?'

MAYA

How did you know?

Three dots appear. Then disappear. The phone rings.

DANIEL (PHONE)

Maya, listen to me. You need to destroy that camera.

MAYA

Why?

DANIEL (PHONE)

Because I watched the same video yesterday.

Silence.

MAYA

Yesterday?

DANIEL (PHONE)

For you, tomorrow hasn't happened yet.

The apartment lights flicker. The camera begins recording again.

INT. TRAIN STATION – NIGHT

11:46 PM. Maya stands on an empty platform, holding the camera. A train approaches in the distance.

She checks the camera screen. A new file is recording live.

On screen, Maya sees herself standing on the platform – filmed from behind.

MAYA

(whispers)

Who's behind me?

She slowly turns. No one.

The train arrives. Its doors open.

Inside the carriage, Daniel sits alone.

DANIEL

You came.

MAYA

You said not to trust you.

DANIEL

I didn't say that.

(urgent)

Maya, get off the train.

The doors begin to close.

MAYA

What happens if I stay?

DANIEL

We find out whether the future can be changed.

Maya steps off at the last second. The doors close between them.

The train disappears into the tunnel.

"TIMELINE UPDATED."

Maya exhales. Her phone buzzes.

A new video file appears.

Filename: LAST_FRAME_02.MOV

Maya looks toward the tunnel.

MAYA

No.

CUT TO BLACK.

END.
